DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. The numbering of claims is not accordance with 37 CFR 1.126 which requires the original numbering of the claims to be preserved throughout the prosecution. When claims are canceled, the remaining claims must not be renumbered. When new claims are presented, they must be renumbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claims previously presented (whether entered or not).

Misnumbered claims 2-7 have been renumbered as claims 26-31.

Double Patenting

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321© may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a non-statutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

3. Claims 1 and 26-31 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 5,987,338. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims in this instant application require that the delay interval is established by a value at the periodic reference instant. Since both the instant application and US Patent No. 5,987,338 describe the delay interval to follow the periodic reference instant, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify claim 1 of US Patent No. 5,987,338 by establishing the delay interval to be a value at the periodic reference instant since the delay interval follows the periodic reference instant.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Obright [US 5,752,202] in view of Kallin [US 5,745,860].

Regarding claim 1, Obright discloses a wireless communication system having a base station 101 which communicates with a remote unit 120 that is in a sleep mode (see Fig. 3 wherein the remote unit goes to standby mode during a ping segment of an inactive window 320 to communicate with the base station). The remote unit operates in either standby mode or sleep mode and inherently has a unique identification value. In this case, "a periodic reference instant" as claimed reads on the end of a non-root window 320 as shown in Fig. 3; "a delay interval" as claimed reads on the interval from the end of the non-root window 320 to a ping segment in the next non-root window 320, see Col. 4-7. Since the remote unit switches from the sleep mode to the standby mode during the ping segment in an inactive window 320 in order to receive message from the base station, it is clear that Obright discloses all the claimed limitations, except for deriving the above delay interval from the unique identification value of the remote unit as claimed. The examiner, however, believes that the above difference would not involved any inventive concept because of the following reasons: First, Obright does suggest that each remote unit is assigned a specific delay interval (see Col. 4, lines 54-57 which discloses that the non-root windows having ping segments are scheduled during registration with the base station). Second, deriving a delay interval from a unique identification value of a remote unit is known in the art as described by Kallin (see Col. 7, lines 8-17). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the above teaching of Kallin to Obright, in order to have a simple way of assigning a delay interval to a remote unit.

Attachment for PTO-948 (Rev. 03/01, or earlier)
6/18/01

The below text replaces the pre-printed text under the heading, "Information on How to Effect Drawing Changes," on the back of the PTO-948 (Rev. 03/01, or earlier) form.

INFORMATION ON HOW TO EFFECT DRAWING CHANGES

1. Correction of Informalities -- 37 CFR 1.85

New corrected drawings must be filed with the changes incorporated therein. Identifying indicia, if provided, should include the title of the invention, inventor's name, and application number, or docket number (if any) if an application number has not been assigned to the application. If this information is provided, it must be placed on the front of each sheet and centered within the top margin. If corrected drawings are required in a Notice of Allowability (PTOL-37), the new drawings MUST be filed within the THREE MONTH shortened statutory period set for reply in the Notice of Allowability. Extensions of time may NOT be obtained under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a) or (b) for filing the corrected drawings after the mailing of a Notice of Allowability. The drawings should be filed as a separate paper with a transmittal letter addressed to the Official Draftsperson.

2. Corrections other than Informalities Noted by Draftsperson on form PTO-948.

All changes to the drawings, other than informalities noted by the Draftsperson, MUST be made in the same manner as above except that, normally, a highlighted (preferably red ink) sketch of the changes to be incorporated into the new drawings MUST be approved by the examiner before the application will be allowed. No changes will be permitted to be made, other than correction of informalities, unless the examiner has approved the proposed changes.

Timing of Corrections

Applicant is required to submit the drawing corrections within the time period set in the attached Office communication. See 37 CFR 1.85(a).

Failure to take corrective action within the set period will result in ABANDONMENT of the application.
